is not only the leading gold and silver producing camp in the state of Idaho, but is also situated in one of the best sections for stock raising, which is being carried on quite extensively and successfully.

The town of Gilmore is not a crude mining camp, as the term usually implies, but one of the most fully situated towns in the county. Its buildings are of the latest designs and substantially erected.

Mr. Herman Harris, who has just completed an analysis of the town's water supply, says it is equally as pure as the water supply of Salt Lake City.

The town has two large mercantile establishments. The Gilmore Mercantile Co. does a business of about $100,000 per year. J. K. Robinson's, the other mercantile establishment, does practically the same amount.

The town supports 3 good hotels, 4 good restaurants, 3 licensed saloons, churches, first-class schools and a daily train and mail service.

The present amount of prospecting and intelligent development now going on surely means big additional shipping mines in the district.

The present population is 500 and will likely be 5000 by January, 1915. For information regarding business locations, houses and lots, apply to Lemhi Valley Bank.
